Description

Posted by Larry Gleeson

The 2021 TCM Classic Film Festival begins tomorrow â?? Thursday, May 6 â?? and runs through Sunday, May 9, at two virtual venues: the TCM network and the Classics Curated by TCM Hub on HBO Max.

While the respective lineups are complementary, they are also different. Access to the TCM lineup can be found here. Access to the HBO Max lineup of movies can be found here.

Both TCM and HBO Max networks are screening the festivalâ??s Opening Night film on Thursday, May 6, at 8 p.m. ET, 5 p.m. PT â?? with the 60th-anniversary screening of â??West Side Storyâ?• (1961) with new and exclusive interviews with the filmâ??s stars Rita Moreno, George Chakiris and Russ Tamblyn.

â??Curating the Classicsâ?• was held this afternoon and had the distinctive feel of the traditional TCM Classic Film Festival Press Conference. *(Pictured top to bottom are some of the curators, Ben Mankiewicz, Anne King, Genevieve Magillucuddy, Dextor Fedor, and Susane Fedor. Not pictured Charlie Tabesh and one other.)

This yearâ??s festival seems to be hitting all the marks. Last yearâ??s initial festival cancellation felt like the doomsday device had been activated only to be annihilated with a pivot that pushed the first major film festival into virtual space. Personally, last yearâ??s edition was a thrill ride and from the architecture in place, this yearâ??s festival appears headed to a place where we wonâ??t need cars!

So, tune in to the TCM network and/or HBO Max for four fantastic days featuring a curated selection of films reflecting a broad spectrum of classic movies â?? each surrounded by new interviews, special presentations, archival content, and clips from past TCM Classic Film Festivals. The HBO Max films will remain available throughout the month of May.
